NEWS-SENTINEL

23rd year #11 | wed 3/18/70 | seaside ca 93955 | 10¢

LITTLE BIT
...on most anything

The lead story in the News-Sentinel last week -- a report of this year's ethnic balance study of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District -- made liars out of us.

We reported that the MPUSD had until June to propose a plan for desegregating 13 schools in the district -- six of them in Seaside. We noted that state guidlines identified segregated schools as those varying more than 15 per cent from the average minority balance of the district.

Not two days after the News-Sentinel came out, the state board junked the guidelines.

When we happened to notice the story -- three or four graphs of it on the back page of a section of the Monterey Peninsula Herald -- we just stared at it in complete frustration -- not so much for the insignificance apparently attached to it by the Herald, although that angered us a bit, too -- but because it represented just another slice in that apparently systematic undermining of the integration of this country.

Realistically we'd probably have to admit that it all started eroding away before Richard Nixon was elected President in 1968, but there's no doubt it has accelerated since.

Carmel Valley attorney Leon Panetta helped us piece together some of the maneuvering after he got pressured out of his job as HEW's civil rights director. His disclosures clearly point to a concerted effort on the Nixon administration's part to put a stop to black advances. And when we add the public mouthings -- the anti-busing speeches of Spiro Agnew, the "benign neglect" memos of close Nixon aide Daniel Moynihan -- we must conclude Nixon isn't about to have Negroes with equal rights threatening his chances for re-election.

Even one of Nixon's front-line supporters in 1968, Sen. Edwin Brooke, R-Mass., the only black in the upper house, has turned on the President. He accused Nixon of [illegible] off southern commitments and admitted that the President doesn't expect or want any black votes in 1972 because he can get re-elected without them.

When the Kerner commission said we were heading toward two societies [illegible]k and white, separate and unequal -- it apparently was more clairvoyant than we feared. We can only hope enough whites -- poor and otherwise -- won't accept Nixon's grand designs or the commission's predictions and allow themselves to be put in that "white bag."

Meanwhile, locally the tax override foes have gained another wedge. The abandonment of the state guidelines should reassure them that the increased funds won't be used for cross busing.

We feel for the school trustees. But we sincerely hope that the dumping of the guidelines won't affect their commitment to desegregate MPUSD schools and achieve a better quality of education for all the children of the district. We know full well that the board will feel pressure of compromise.

The MPUSD faces a financial crisis and board members will end up convincing themselves that they must do everything they can to pass that second attempt at an override in July.

They quite likely will rationalize that sacrificing their principled support of a desegregation plan will be justified in the face of another override defeat, especially when it would certainly cripple the quality of education in the district.

We can't help wondering similar thoughts about that other big issue that helped to kill the first override -- sex education. Will it tempt, too?

It was a waste -- the state's suit against Seaside for polluting Monterey Bay. It had another unhappy effect.

Seaside will be looking for a new city engineer. Dick Hirschkind has resigned effective March 31.

City Manager Milt Farrell has been on the job nine months. The usual status quo, get-acquainted period is over.

Farrell wasn't happy with the way Hirschkind was running the public works department, so he asked for his resignation.

It was apparent Farrell didn't like the way two recent biddings for a roller and a street sweeper were handled, but the pressures of the fight over Seaside's sewer plant certainly played a role, and indirectly it can probably be said the anti-pollution war has taken one of its first innocent victims.

Cleared up a curiosity that's been bugging us for some time.

They're not going to paint the two pylons in the Gateway Project. Mike D'Amico, who was in Seaside for the dedication of the project Saturday, explains that the rust will slowly turn sort of a maroon color, claims the rust won't run in the rain all that much.

We must admit those towers are eye-catching, even impressive, but at times they remind us of those rusty old square nails you used to find in old, old houses.

D'Amico says there's still some indecision about whether there will be panels at the tops of the towers to hide the back side of those four lights that will eventually shine down.

Seaside plugs state's suit, full flushing next

Seaside will attempt to put the finishing touches on a victory over the state when it appears before the Central Coast Regional Water Quality Control Board Friday.

The city has already won the first round, having successfully gained dismissal last week of a suit brought against the Seaside Sanitation District by the state.

In dismissing the suit, Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson in effect said the Seaside district was complying with new state standards for effluents from its sewage treatment plant.

On the face of it, that would seemingly nullify the Water Quality Control Board's order for Seaside to cease and desist from polluting the bay or pay up to $6,000 a day in fines. At least that's what the sanitation district hopes to convince the board of Friday.

In moving to dismiss the state's suit against the district, City Atty. Saul Weingarten argued that the water board had issued its cease and desist order only last December, which was not sufficient time for the sanitation district to comply with the state requirement. That requirement called for 30 straight samples of bacteria counts meeting state standards. At the time of the nearing only 13 samplings had been taken. Judge Lawson agreed with Weingarten that it would be impossible for the district to comply.

Weingarten pointed out that the most recent samplings show virtually no contamination. The district has spent about $7,500 to improve the chlorinating and purifying processes at the plant on the Sand City beach.

Regardless of the water board's order and suit, for which a trial date has not yet been set, the Seaside district still faces long-range improvements to the plant that would equip it for secondary treatment. It is now a primary treatment plant.

Seaside officials have balked at being forced into a regional effort since it could cost up to twice the amount if the district improves its own plant. Local cost has been estimated at about $1 million. That, in itself, would require passage of a bond issue increasing the property tax rate by more than 20¢ per $100 of assessed valuation.

Salary study could cost city $65,000

A salary and job study would cost the City of Seaside from $15,000 to $17,000 in adjusted salaries during the rest of the fiscal year if approved by councilmen Thursday night.

The study was the first of two completed by Griffenhagen - Kroeger, a management consulting firm hired by the city last year. The second part -- the actual management proposals -- will be outlined for councilmen Thursday night by Elwood Ennis, a representative fo the firm.

Two weeks ago, Ennis submitted the job study, saying the employees had waited some time for adjustments, and recommended that it be implemented soon, possibly by April.

In figuring what that sould cost, City Manager Milt Farrell came up with the $15,000-$17,000 estimate between April and the end of the fiscal period, June 30.

However, councilmen indicated that any consideration of the changes probably would await buget study due during the next month.

If implemented for an entire fiscal year, the salary adjustments would cost the city from $60,000 to $65,000. Presently the range of annual salaries goes from an entry-level $4,776 for clerk typist to a top-of-the-range $17,448 for a city engineer.

The job of city manager is not included in the study. That salary, presently budgeted at some $19,000, has been subject to council decision annually. The city manager position also calls for an additional $2,400 as manager of the Seaside Sanitation District.

The Griffenhagen-Kroeger proposals increase the range to $4,980 for the clerk typist to $18,600 for the city engineer.

Some current monthly salary ranges and the recommendations:

	Present	Recommended
Secretary	$498-604	$517-628
Custodian	463-562	458-556
Laborer	463-562	481-548
Police Officer	498-727	644-782
Police Chief	1048-1274	1213-1476
Fireman	584-710	628-763
Parks & Recreation Director	None	950-1155
Planning Director	841-1023	998-1213
Asst. City Manager	None	1100-1338

The report notes that some jobs are now paying more than the recommendations. If adopted, there would be no salary cuts, but persons holding those jobs would presumably wait longer for periodic raises.

The study also adds a Parks & Recreation Director and an Assistant City Manager to the salary schedule.

It describes each job and gives educational and experience requirements.

Coffeehouse appeal on agenda

The GI Coffeehouse in the old bus depot on Del Monte in Seaside will take the spotlight Thursday night at the regular meeting of the Seaside City Council Thursday at 8.

Owners of the coffeehouse, through their attorney, Steve Slatkow of the Legal Aid Society, have appealed to the council a denial by the planning commission of their request for a use permit at the establishment.

The restaurant use is already permitted by the city's zoning ordinance, but the secondary use of selling and distributing literature is not. That is what the planners denied, without comment, two months ago.

Slatkow has said he is appealing the decision on the grounds that doing so violates the constitutional rights of the coffeehouse owners.

Some of the literature and periodicals the coffeehouse wants to sell is in the "radical" class -- about the Black Panther Party, Communist Party doctrine of Marx, Lenin, Mao Tse-tung. This is what drew the opposition at the planning commission hearing.

Free tax aid

Free income tax service for low-income families will be given at the Monterey Service Center, 1580 Del Monte Blvd. every Wednesday in March, from 6 to 9 p.m., and every Saturday in March from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on April 4 from 10 to 3 p.m.

For information call the center, 373-1381, or 373-1382.

Signup for summer jobs next week

The big push to get students summer jobs is on for next week during Easter vacation.

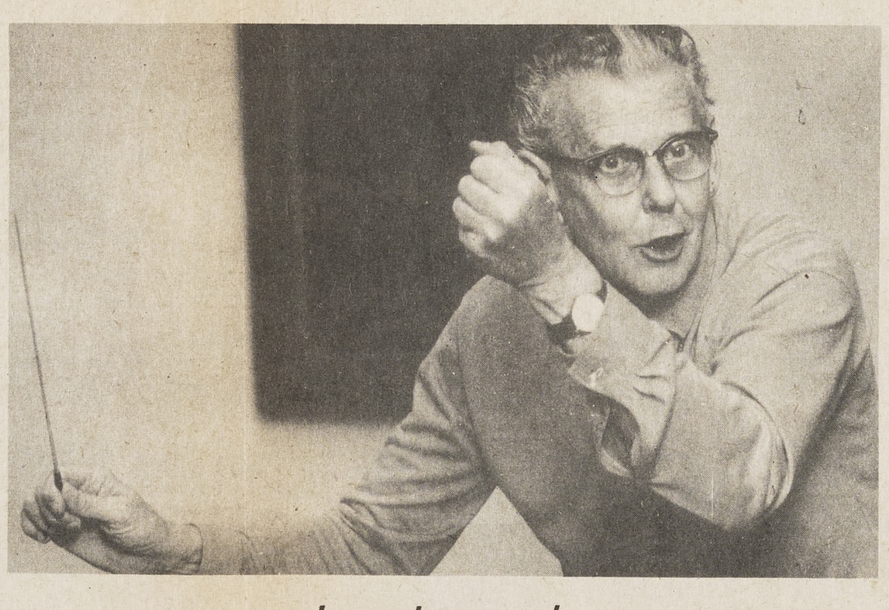
The Student Employment Service will register youths 16-22 from Monday, March 23, through Friday, March 27. Applications forms are available from Seaside and Monterey High counselors, and officials note that applicants may speed their processing if they have the forms filled out when they present at the Department of Human Resources Development (formerly Employment) at 480 Webster in Monterey.

SES officials said students who have had applications on file with the service during the last year must still appear at the office during Easter week to keep their file active.

Malcolm Foster, SES committee chairman, urges all local business, government and domestic employers to cooperate in providing jobs for students this summer.

A statewide campaign for youth this summer will have Russel Hansen as the area chairman, appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan. Hansen is business representataive for the Carpenters Union #1323 and a charter member of SES.

The statewide program will be operated in conjunction with the local SES effort, now in its 10th year.



In rehearsal

HAYMO TAEUBER rehearses the Monterey Choral Society and Symphony for the Palm Sunday performance of "The X Creation." The oratorio will be performed at 3 p.m. at the Naval Postgraduate School's King Hall. Tickets are on sale at $2.

Gateway dedicated

THE NORTH PLAZA of the Gateway Project was renamed Geary Plaza and dedicated in honor of Francis I. Geary Saturday. Geary, longtime chairman of the Redevelopment Agency, died shortly before the project got final approval in 1967. The South Plaza of the project was also renamed, for Michael Heitzinger, also an agency member who was killed in an auto accident just a week after Geary's death. The Heitzinger plaza will be dedicated later. Honored at the ceremonies was Mrs. Geary, who stands here with Dick Goblirsch, former UR director who had the original idea for the project.

Saga at Yosemite - or exit free enterprise

comment

The city and urban renewal found a familiar old loophole just in time last week.

The UR agency, pressed by city fathers and planners, had gotten itself into a grand mess with a proposed neighborhood commercial shopping center at the corner of Yosemite and Broadway.

More than a year ago Clarence Shaw, a developer from Fresco, started designing a convenience center primarily for the senior citizens due to live next door in Del Monte Villa as well as for the more than 600 residents of Del Monte Manor. Anyone with any sense also realized that the center had great potential for the entire top half of Seaside.

The agency had allowed Shaw to proceed, which he did, following zoning guidelines for such a neighborhood commercial center. But then early in 1970 one of the proposed tenants, Quick Stop, a convenience market, put up a sign to advertise for a permit to sell on-sale beer and wine.

Residents of the neighborhood got wind of it and objected plenty. They said that was selling alcohol too close to a school--King Junior High is just across the street. The sign came down, pronto, but it was too late.

The forces of opposition began to organize. Businessmen, already suffering from continued declining retail sales in the city and the general recessionary trend of the national economy, voiced strong opposition to another shopping center, when such as Olympia Plaza, has hardly any small tenants at all. It was unstated, but many feared the Pit would move to that corner if the city trades it for old city hall.

So the agency dumped the hot potato back into the city's lap and a joint planning study was set. When all of them got together, the opposition was clear -- officials hadn't bargained for a 14-tenant center when they conceived a neighborhood commercial four years ago. That size was just a "junior Macy's" in the words of City Atty. Saul Weingarten. Scale it down, they said. And last week, the planning commission, added its edict, officially.

All have stopped short of nixing the center, because it is legally zoned for a center, and there hasn't been a move yet to re-zone.

But the net effect of the words of Planning Comminnioner Mrs. Billie Barton, last week, all but killed a center for that corner. She said the planners would hold a club over any use permits that would come before them, in other words, anything 2,600 square feet. In addition, some of the uses aren't permitted without use permit anyway. That means, clearly, that the planning commission will dictate a halving of the center from about two acres to one.

In so doing they will have accomplished their purpose, because Shaw probably can't build a one-acre center and hope to make it pay. There's a law in construction that says costs aren't directly proportional to the size. In other words, a one-acre center won't cost half as much as a two-acre center.

There's another law, this one in merchandising, that says sales are pretty much in direct proportion to the amount of floor and display space. That means faced with half-size stores, potential merchants will balk because the rents will be far higher than half. And without that added floor space those merchants won't be able to count on sufficient sales to support the higher rent.

At least two potential tenants of the center have a right to be damned mad about the city's machinations.

These merchants, and many others, suffered greatly when urban renewal took all their customers away in the Gateway Project. But none of them had any recourse. If a business happens to be within UR project boundaries, it can be relocated and is at least paid some pittance for the inconvenience. But when the business is just on the border, no deal.

We can't blame Seaside Rexall and City Cleaners for being a little bitter for losing a chance to survive.

What particularly disturbs Dick Penrose of Seaside Rexall and many other merchants is an ever tightening web of city regulations and restrictions that has the effect of destroying freedom of choice and enterprise.

UR and city consultants have made it clear in master plans that strip development along Fremont and Broadway must go. Yet, when neighbohood commercial centers are designed and zoned to attempt to alleviate that strip development, city officials back off, change their minds, contradict themselves.

Most merchants -- including those who oppose the Yosemite center -- agree that they will survive as long as they provide a needed service or product. Most wouldn't gripe if they felt they were masters of their own destinies. It's the outside forces that close in on them -- they can't control the demolition of homes that once housed their customers, they can't plan for the future because zoning seems to change with little pattern and master plans don't seem to be worth the paper they're printed on.

We almost get the feeling that city officials -- elected and otherwise -- are using their opposition to the Yosemite center as a narcotic painkiller. It will deaden the pain of inevitable change in commercial patterns for the city. In the process will the merchants get hooked on the habit?

Negro History Revisited

Pictures and Story By Bob Waldrup

Negro history week was highlighted by a variety of events, which reflected not only the hardships but the accomplishments of the Black man. Students faculty and members of the community participated in the various events that were held. Programs were held at a nimber of locations with the main events at Monterey Peninsula College and Martin Luther King Junior High School.

Acitivities included lectures, discussions, displays of local talent and displays of work from local artists and photographers. Martin Luther King Jr. High was the scene of a program which included an original oration by Bert Neal, a student at Seaside High. There were readings by Bobby Blakeney, Khambrel Marshall, Rodney Blakeney and many others.

The special guest of the evening was Charles Lampkin, a professor at the University of California, Santa Clara. Lampkin teaches dramatics and music and has appeared on a number of television programs and movies. His contribution to the program was a collection of readings and his interpretation of James Weldon Johnson's "The Creation," which was done with the assistance of the Seaside High School Acapella choir. Miss Demetria Hunter was the soloist for the choir.

Mrs. Bertha Hutchins held a program at the Monterey Peninsula College. Her program offered poetry readings, singing dancing and a fashion show. Helen Blakeney and Clairece Beene performed modern dance routines, with each girl choreograpahing her own dance.

Robert Gillian teamed up with Brenda Booker and Mary Green to do an African folk dance. Robert spiced it up with his Afro influenced version of the "Funky Chicken." It combined the old with the new and the African with the Afro American.

All things considered Negro Histroy week found a full schedule of events for the enjoyment and observation of the people of which some felt there were not enough present.

TLC Youth Plan

Resurrection Weekend

The Tender Loving Care Youth Group in an effort to raise money for a 24-hour child care center will sponsor resurrection weekend, Mar. 27-29.

Individuals or groups can sponsor a booth at the Monterey Fairgrounds - event by contributing 10 per cent of their proceeds to the group.

Persons interested in a booth can call 394-2959, 394-5892 or 624-0664.

Air Class Set

An air reservation agent workshop will be conducted at Monterey Peninsula College for 10 consecutive Tuesday starting March 31.

The workshop, to be offered in connection with United Air Lines, is designed to train students for employment as ticket and reservations agents.

Meetings will take place in the College's business conference room from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. Robert Wise, senior station agent for United, will act as workshop director.

Workshop participants will receive instruction in the proper manner in which to meet an airline customer accross the counter or over a telephone; and in courteously and efficiently determining the customers needs. Students will also be taught the routines of ticketing, schedules, connections, routing and baggage handling and will become familiar with aircraft characteristics. Work experience will be assigned at the Monterey Peninsula Airport.

A registration fee of $17.50, to cover namuals and workshop materials, is payable in advance through the college community services office. Enrollment will be limited to 25 persons.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. I was ready to apply for my Social Security benefits until I found out in today's mail that I can't get a birth certificate because the state where I was born didn't record my birth. Now what do I do?

A. If you were baptized before the age of 5 there may be a church record of your age. Write for it. Also go to your Social Security office now. Don't wait to apply for benefits, because the Social Security office will help you obtain other evidence of your age.

Q. I am receiving Social SE curity benefits. I started working again in March of last year. At that time, I estimated my earnings would be approximately $2,400. My health is not so good now and I've had to cut down on my work. I probably earned only $2,000 , in 1968. What should I do?

A. Whenever you have a substantial increase or decrease in your estimated earnings you should notify Social Security. Be sure to file your annual report of earnings for the year between Jan. 1 and April 15, of the following year so that any adjustments due you can be made.

THE PHONE BOOTH

Probably some of the most amusing on-the-job incidents reported by telephone employees come from installers. While dogs are traditionally the bane of postmen, they rarely encounter an alligator or elephant. Not so with the installers, who are trained and equipped to put in and maintain telephones just about anywhere.

One Bell System installer, for example, was confronted by a five foot alligator in the basement of a customer's home. ("Just a pet," the owner blithely explained.) Another installer had to fight off the affectionate attentions of 15 dogs which a customer was keeping in a 2 room flat. And then there's the installer who found himself trapped in the equipment room of a sports arena by an elephant who wouldn't budge from the doorway. The tales are endless, but such incidents are part of the job for these hard-working men—who'll face just about anything to bring you good telephone service.

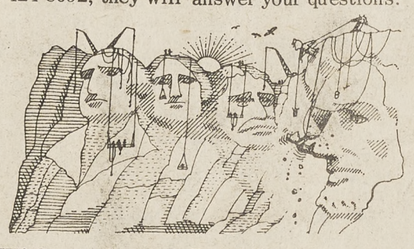
You may be filling out a new 1040 income tax form this year that combines the old 1040 and 1040A forms. If you have a tax question, our nearest Internal Revenue Service office is at 100 West Alisal, Salinas, telephone 424-8092, they will answer your questions.



With movie star Lee Marvin as host-narrator, the Bell System will present "It Couldn't Be Done," a color television special paying tribute to American "builders of the impossible." Air date is Thursday, April 2. Check your newspaper for time and station.

The program will salute the people who achieved such projects as Mt. Rushmore Memorial, the Panama Canal, Golden Gate Bridge and Holland Tunnel. Musical accompaniment will be provided by The Fifth Dimension.

CONSUMER POWER

By YVONNE EARNST

In last week's column, we discussed how to set up a loose-leaf notebook system to organize your refunding efforts. This week let's talk about now to make it work.

Let's assume that you have just received your March copy of one of the refunding publications. (These were discussed in an earlier column. The most reliable one is QuickSilver, 203 Main St., Milford, N.Y. 13807).

Take an hour out, and have a second cup of coffee; or wait until you are watching television that evening. Take out your refunding notebook and the new copy of the refunding news.

Enter each item that you are likely to buy for your family's use on the proper page. It is probably best to alphabetize items by the brand name. Using the column headings described last week, enter first the expiration date of the offer (6/1/70)--and be sure to mail a few days before that.

Next, enter the source of the address (QS 3-1 for March issue of QuickSilver, offer no. 1.) When it is time to address the envelope, this will speed finding the address.

In the next column, list the exact prodcut to be purchased and the portion of the package to be sent as proof-of-purchase (6 BirdsEye 5-minute vegetable fronts or 6 six-oz, JellO fronts, one must be specially marked.) Further abbreviation will be necessary to conserve space, but this is an individual decision as how to do it.

In the column headed "form," you would put an "R" if a form is required to take advantage of the offer. Most refund offers are open to anyone without a a form, but some companies, such as Pillsbury, now required forms because of past abuses of refund offers.

After you obtain a form (we will descuss nest week how to find forms) you can put an "X" in that spot to show that you have the form, and are ready to send in the proofs-of-purchase for your refund.

In the next column, put the amount of the refund. That might be a specific sum, such as 50¢, or it might be for the purchase price, whatever that may be. It may be a coupon for a free package of the product, or a coupon for 50 ¢ on your next purchase of the product. In my own code, I find that putting paranthese around the figure is a good way to indicate that an offer is for a coupon rather than cash. Most refund offers are for cash.

Use this "amount of refund" entry in the grocery store to help with the decision as to whether or not the purchase is worthwhile. If it means trying an unknown new product which costs 78¢, and the refund is only 30¢, you may well decide that it is now worthwhile. However, if the refund is for the amount of purchase, it would be much more worthwhile to try the new product.

The next column, "date sent," is where you later enter the date you sent in the proofs-of-purchase. And the last column, "date received," is where you enter the date when you received your refund through the mail. This last column is your record of how much money your refunding efforts bring you.

A wise refunder puts all the refund maney in a bank to save for a special purchase, such as an oil painting from a Carmel gallery.

But whether you consider the refunds you receive as a rebate on your grocery bill, and put the mony right back into the grocery buget.....or as a bonus you have earned that you can spend on necessities or luzuries, as you wish... you will find refunding well worth your investment of as little as 3 or 4 hours a month.

Please send any questions you have about refunding or any other consumer interest to me c/o Seaside News-Sentinel, P.O. Box 736, Seaside, Calif. 93955.

Women's Health

Chapel Hill, N.C. (WMNS) - If clogged roads and traffic jams unpredictably delayed storks as well as people, doctors would be less tempted to try to schedule childbirths.

As it is, warns Dr. Charles Hendricks, chairman of the obstetrics department of the University of North Carolina, the chemical induction of labor is sprezding.

In rural areas, where the expectant mother lives far from the hospital and where there;s a doctor shortage, some overworked physicians have induced labor in more than half of their patients. In large cities, labor is traditionally induced only for medical reasons.

But now, says Dr. Hendricks, induced labor is becoming more acceptable because miserable rush hour traffic conditions between suburbs and downtown hospitals make many trips a perolous race between stork and driver.

The obstetrician believes that non-medical induction should never be done forh the convenience of the doctor but is sometimes permissible for the convenience of the patient.

Form 1040 U.S. Individual ... Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) My only income last year was from a summer job between semesters at college. To get a refund, can I just send in my W–2 or do I have to fill out a whole tax form?

A) You must file a tax return to obtain any refund due. Copies of Form 1040 and instructions are available at local IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices if you did not receive one in the mail.

If you read the instructions, you should have little difficulty completing your return.

Q) What's the tax difference between alimony and child support payments?

A) Alimony is considered taxable income to the recipient and has to be reported. Alimony payments are allowed as a tax deduction for payers who itemize.

Child support payments on the other hand are not taxable and do not have to be reported for tax purposes. No deduction is allowed for these payments, but they might be a factor in determining who can claim the child as dependent.

Divorce or separation agreements usually specify whether a payment is alimony or for child support.

Q) My brother and I each contribute 1/3 the support of our grandfather, he furnishes the remainder of his support from his Social Security. Can either of us claim him as a dependent?

A) The support test for claiming your grandfather as a dependent has been met since each of you contributes over 10 percent of his total support and the sum of your contributions was over half of his support.

When this and the other dependency support tests are met, then either of you, but not both, may claim your grandfather as an exemption. The person not claiming the exemption should complete Form 2120, Multiple Support Declaration, which should be filed with the return of the one claiming the exemption. Form 2120 can be obtained from your local IRS office.

Q) I lost the forms needed to deposit taxes withheld from my employee's wages. Where can I get more?

A) Write to either your IRS district office or the service center where you file your returns. Give your business name and address, and employer identification number.

Be sure to indicate the type of tax and the taxable period for which you need the Federal Tax Deposit forms.

Q) I drive over 40 miles a day going back and forth to work. Can I take a mileage deduction for this?

A) No, commuting is a personal expense under our tax laws and not deductible. However, you can deduct the state gas tax you pay as a result of your driving.

A table to help you figure this deduction is in the 1040 tax package on Page A–1. The deduction is based on the gas tax rate in your state and the number of miles you drive.

Q) I'm claiming a deduction for the braces my daughter needs to straighten her teeth. Should I send in the dental bills I've paid with my return?

A) No, but keep them for your tax records. They will be needed if this item on your return is questioned.

Q) Are tips considered taxable?

A) Yes, and they must be included in gross income. Also, cash tips of $20 or more that you receive in a month while working for any one employer should be reported to that employer. This will enable your employer to withhold Social Security and income tax on tips from your salary.

Q) The address shown on the label that came with my return is wrong. Should I correct it?

A) Yes, make the change right on the label and send it back on the return you file so that IRS records can be corrected.

Q) I have two sources of income, a regular job and part-time work for myself. Do I have to pay both social security and self-employment tax?

A) It depends on the amount of your wages. The maximum amount of income subject to social security and/or self-employment tax is $7,800. If your wages reached that total, then no self-employment tax has to be paid.

If your wages were under $7,800, then you should pay self-employment tax on part or all of your earnings from self-employment but only if your net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more. Remember the combined total subject to social security and self-employment tax is $7,800.

Q) I'm itemizing deductions. Can I deduct the service charges I pay in installment purchases?

A) The interest portion of service or finance charges is deductible. If this amount is not stated separately, you may deduct the lesser of an amount equal to six percent of the average monthly unpaid balance or the actual charge for the year.

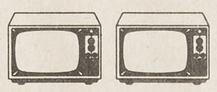
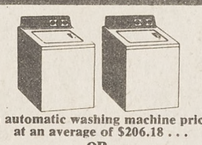
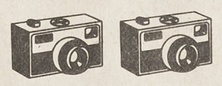
Which should you buy ?



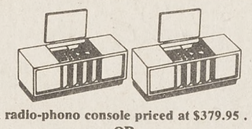
A color TV set priced at $359.95 . . . OR another unit priced at $429.95?



An automatic washing machine priced at an average of $206.18 . . . OR another model priced at an average of $254.98?



An instant-load autoexposure camera priced at $69.95 . . . OR another model priced at $119.50?



A radio-phono console priced at $379.95 . . . OR another console priced at $499.95?

THE ANSWERS to the questions above show how easily you and your family can lose money each year in your search for quality. The fact is that you, like so many others, may be buying virtually "blindfolded." For example:

On the basis of impartial laboratory tests, the color TV set priced at $359.95 was judged better in overall quality than the model priced at $429.95. (Possible saving: up to $70.00)

The washing machine priced at an average of $254.98 was judged inferior in washing ability to the model priced at an average of $206.18. (Possible saving: up to $48.80)

The instant-load autoexposure camera priced at $69.95 was top rated over similar models priced as high as $119.50. (Possible saving: up to $49.55)

The radio-phono console priced at $379.95 was judged better in overall quality than the console priced at $499.95 and was rated a "Best Buy." (Possible saving: up to $120.00)

These "hidden" values and savings were revealed in recent issues of Consumer Reports. Hundreds of products like these are rated in the latest 448-page issue of the famous Consumer Reports Buying Guide. A copy is yours as a gift with a one year subscription to Consumer Reports.

How these impartial tests are made

Consumer Reports is published monthly by Consumers Union, a nonprofit, public-service organization. CU has absolutely no connection with any manufacturer and prohibits the use of its findings for promotional purposes. It accepts no advertising, no "gifts" or "loans" of products for testing, no contributions from any commercial interest; it derives its income from the sale of its publications to over 1,500,000 subscribers and newsstand buyers all over the U.S.

Consumers Union's own shoppers buy, on the open market, random samples of automobiles, clothing, foods, household appliances and supplies, photographic and sports equipment, cosmetics, hi-fi components, and most other kinds of products you may be thinking of buying. These are tested comparatively by chemists and engineers. Each regular monthly issue of Consumer Reports brings you the latest findings, with ratings by brand name and model number as "Best Buy," "Acceptable" or "Not Acceptable."

Facts you need for your family's welfare

In addition, Consumer Reports brings you a wide range of authoritative—sometimes startling—articles. You regularly receive candid, down-to-earth discussions of deceptive packaging practices (with examples cited by name), advertising claims, credit buying and the actual cost of credit . . . honest reports on vitamins and other drugs . . . revealing facts about new, highly promoted gadgets that are often a waste of money.

"Hidden" values and savings discovered for you

Here are a few more examples of the "hidden" values and savings discovered in the CU laboratories:

. . . a portable circular saw priced at $24.95 was judged better in overall quality than another model priced at $49.95. (Possible saving: up to $25.00)

. . . a coffee urn priced at $13.95 was top-rated over other models priced anywhere up to $45.95 and was judged a "Best Buy." (Possible saving: up to $32.00)

. . . a stereo amplifier kit priced at $64.95 was judged better in overall quality than a unit priced at $99.95 and was rated a "Best Buy." (Possible saving: up to $35.00)

"Read, respected and feared"

The frank reporting of Consumers Union has won wide acclaim. Time calls Consumers Union "The best known tester of consumer goods in the U.S." Newsweek says, "The magazine with the most decisive word on the quality of products is probably Consumer Reports." The National Observer calls it . . . "read, respected and feared."

APPLICATION FOR PUBLICATION OF SUMMONS AND ORDER

ELIZABETH CHILDS, Petitioner,
-and-
FREDERICK R. CHILDS, Respondent.

I, THE UNDERSIGNED, DECLARE:
That I am the Petitioner in the above-entitled Petition; That the respondent cannot with due diligence be found within the State of California; The facts of the due diligence used in the effort to find FREDERICK R. CHILDS are as follows: I checked with his ex-employer, Department of Motor Vehicles, and from his best friend in Los Angeles, however, they all could not furnish the whereabouts of the respondent.
Petitioner and respondent were living together at 3082 Zanetta Dr., Marina, California. However, on June 21, 1969, without any reason at all, respondent disserted me, and on the 27th day of June, I received a letter from the respondent to the effect that he won't be coming back anymore.
I searched the telephone directories of Monterey County and the City of Salinas, the City Directory of Salinas, and the Registrar of Voters, and have been unable to fine his name listed therein.
The creditors of respondent were looking for him. They also made effort to locate the respondent for the purpose of collecting certain obligations which he owed them. I communicated with them and they have been looking for him since July 1969, but they were unable to locate him. They told me that they canvassed his friends, relatives, the Motor Vehicles Department, and other sources of information which were available to them, but they have been unable to locate him.
A good ground for legal separation exists against respondent and in favor of Petitioner as shown by the Petition on file herein, which Petition is hereby incorporated by reference, the same as though fully set forth at length.
That the Seaside News Sentinel is a newspaper of general circulation published in the City of Seaside, County of Monterey, State of California; That the publication of the Summons herein in the said newspaper is most likely to give notice of the legal separation herein between Petitioner and respondent.
WHEREFORE, Petitioner prays that this Court order publication of the Summons herein to be published in the Seaside News Sentinel, once a week for four (4) consecutive weeks.
I declare, under penalty of perjury, that the foregoing is true and correct.
EXECUTED on February 11, 1970, at Seaside, California.

ORDER
Upon reading and filing of the Application of the Petitioner, and it appearing satisfactorily that the respondent cannot with due diligence be found in the State of California; and it further appearing that a good ground exists against said respondent and in favor of Petitioner; and it further appearing that a Summons has been duly issued out of the above-entitled Court in this Petition and that personal service of the same cannot be made on said respondent within the State of California for the reasons hereinbefore stated, and by the said Application made to appear;
IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that service of Summons in this Petition be made upon the defendant, FREDERICK R. CHILDS, by publication thereof in the Seaside News Sentinel a newspaper published in the City of Seaside, County of Monterey, State of California, which newspaper is hereby designated as the newspaper most likely to give notice to said respondent; and that such publication be made once a week for four (4) consecutive weeks.
